Publishing in Academic Librarianship: The Scholar-Practitioner Identity

Deborah V. Dolan, M.A., M.L.S.
Assistant Professor & Social Sciences Librarian
Axinn Library, Hofstra University

presented at

Academic Librarianship & Publishing in Peer Reviewed Library Journals

Thursday, April 26th
2 - 4:30 P.M.
Hunter College School of Social Work
Room 1010 (Conference Room)
129 East 79th Street

Sponsored by the LACUNY Professional Development Committee

Suggested Reading Materials

Guides to Getting Published

Publishing Activity and Patterns of Academic Librarians

Faculty Status, Publishing, Tenure, and Related Issues

Research Methods

Sage Series – Quantitative Applications in the Social Sciences

[150 titles; each book is approximately 80 pages and covers a particular topic in detail. See separate handout for list of individual titles]

Selected Research Examples, Sources, and Ideas

[contains attitude questionnaire and factor analysis of attitude components]

[provides citations, and video via Muse links demonstrating ‘think-aloud’ method and verbal protocol analysis]

[reference list contains citations and links to data collected by agencies and available for secondary analysis]

[includes data coding sheet]

[includes detailed methodology and pre- and post-websearch questionnaires]

[appendix includes data-gathering template]

[contains student survey evaluating usefulness of library classes over the long-term]

These five articles together comprise a notable Journal of Academic Librarianship symposium on “The Identity of Academic Librarianship” and should be read together and in order. Note that they are eight consecutive pages. Definitely worth reading.

Deborah V. Dolan, M.A., M.L.S., Assistant Professor, Social Sciences Librarian, Axinn Library, Hofstra University, Deborah.V.Dolan@Hofstra.edu (4/07)