

Activity 1. Defining Epochs

Instructions: There are defining points in everyone's life that mark changes in the way they live, relate to others, and think about the world. Think about defining points in your own life. Draw a timeline labeling each of these points. The periods between these defining points are like historical epochs. Think of a good name for each of these time spans or epochs in your life.